Eighteenth Sunday After Pentecost

GOSPEL Matt. 9:1-8 At that time, Jesus entering into a boat, passed over the water and came into His own city. And behold they brought to Him one sick of the palsy lying in a bed. And Jesus, seeing their faith, said to the man sick of the palsy: "Be of good heart, son, thy sins are forgiven thee." And behold some of the scribes said within themselves: "He blasphemeth." And Jesus seeing their thoughts, said: "Why do you think evil in your hearts? Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins are forgiven thee: or to say, Arise, and walk? But that you may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins," (then said He to the man sick of the palsy,) "Arise, take up thy bed, and go into thy house." And he arose and went into his house. And the multitude seeing it, feared, and glorified God that gave such power to men.

St. Isaac Jogues, S.J. (10 January 1607 – 18 October 1646) Isaac Jogues and his companions were the first martyrs of the North American continent officially recognized by the Church. As a young Jesuit, Isaac Jogues, a man of learning and culture, taught literature in France. He gave up that career to work among the Huron Indians in the New World, and in 1636, he and his companions, under the leadership of Jean de Brébeuf, arrived in Quebec. The Hurons were constantly attacked by the Iroquois, and in a few years, Father Jogues was captured by the Iroquois and imprisoned for 13 months. An unexpected chance for escape came to Isaac Jogues through the Dutch, and he returned to France, bearing the marks of his sufferings. Welcomed home as a hero, Father Jogues might have sat back, thanked God for his safe return, and died peacefully in his homeland. But his zeal led him back once more to the fulfillment of his dreams. In a few months he sailed for his missions among the Hurons.

In 1646, he and Jean de Lalande, who had offered his services to the missionaries, set out for Iroquois country in the belief that a recently signed peace treaty would be observed. They were captured by a Mohawk war party, and on October 18, Father Jogues was tomahawked and beheaded. Jean de Lalande was killed the next day at Ossernenon, a village near Albany, New York.

The first of the Jesuit missionaries to be martyred was René Goupil who with Lalande, had offered his services as an oblate. He was tortured along with Isaac Jogues in 1642 and was tomahawked for having made the sign of the cross on the brow of some children. Father Anthony Daniel, working among Hurons who were gradually becoming Christian, was killed by Iroquois on July 4, 1648. His body was thrown into his chapel, which was set on fire.

Jean de Brébeuf was a French Jesuit who came to Canada at the age of 32 and labored there for 24 years. He went back to France when the English captured Quebec in 1629 and expelled the Jesuits but returned to his missions four years later. Although medicine men blamed the Jesuits for a smallpox epidemic among the Hurons, Jean remained with them.

He composed catechisms and a dictionary in Huron and saw 7,000 converted before his death in 1649. Having been captured by the Iroquois at Sainte Marie, near Georgian Bay, Canada, Father Brébeuf died after four hours of extreme torture.

Gabriel Lalemant had taken a fourth vow—to sacrifice his life for the Native Americans. He was horribly tortured to death along with Father Brébeuf.

Father Charles Garnier was shot to death in 1649 as he baptized children and catechumens during an Iroquois attack.

Father Noel Chabanel also was killed in 1649, before he could answer his recall to France. He had found it exceedingly hard to adapt to mission life. He could not learn the language, and the food and life of the Indians revolted him, plus he suffered spiritual dryness during his whole stay in Canada. Yet he made a vow to remain in his mission until death.

These eight Jesuit martyrs of North America were canonized in 1930. Their feast day is celebrated on 26 September. The National Shrine of the North American Martyrs, also dedicated as the Shrine of Our Lady of Martyrs, is a Roman Catholic shrine in Auriesville, N.Y.

Reflection ~ Faith and heroism planted belief in Christ's cross deep in our land. The Church in North America sprang from the blood of martyrs, as has been true in so many places. The ministry and sacrifices of these saints, challenges each of us, causing us to ask just how deep is our faith and how strong our desire to serve even in the face of death.

FATHER SAFREED’S REFLECTIONS

JOHN XXIII part 19

From “Vatican II Exposed as Counterfeit Catholicism” by Frs. Francisco and Dominic Radecki, CMRI

TO DECEIVE THE ELECT

Satan has deceived many individuals throughout history as when he appeared as Mary at Lourdes to distract from Our Lady’s apparitions there in 1858. False apparitions contain many true statements, yet also include errors or lies. In like manner, John XXIII fooled many Catholics because he still uttered some traditional Catholic statements from time to time. His early encyclicals “Sacerdotal Nostril Primordia” on St. John Vianney and “Grata Recordatio” on reciting the Rosary contain inspiring chapters and quotations. In “Veterum Sapientia,” written on February 22, 1962, John XXIII described the importance of Latin to the Church.

“Furthermore, the Church’s language must not only be universal but immutable. Modern languages are liable to change.” He further stressed that Latin gives precisely the exact meaning to words because “it is set and unchanging”, therefore ideal for use by the Catholic Church. In an address to Seminary Rectors on July 29, 1961, he said “the Deposit of Faith is untouchable and indestructible.”

Such statements as these were [very] likely made to condition people to accept his later revolutionary encyclicals and liturgical “reforms.” When puzzled and disturbed by John XXIII’s radical moves, priests and laity could always refer back to his earlier orthodox statements. On one hand, John XXIII would uphold Catholic beliefs and on the other he sided with Modernists. Many devout and sincere Catholics, clergy and laity, were deceived by his split personality and cunning. No wonder so many Catholics were confused.

The sculptor Manzu, an atheist friend of John XXIII from Bergamo, was excommunicated and his sacrilegious art was condemned by the Holy Office. Author, Curtis Pepper, in his book “An Artist and the Pope,” described both Manzu’s audience with Pope Pius XII and his work for John XXIII. Pope Pius XII censured him for his crucifixion scene: a skeleton on the Cross with indecent figures around it. After John XXIII’s election, the atheist Manzu was warmly received at the Vatican and employed to make a bronze bust of John XXIII to be completed before the opening of the Council.

In 1968 “Life” magazine carried an article describing Manzu’s recollections and sculptures.

Manzu was worried when trying to find the true pope. Indeed, it was impossible for him to recognize the inner subject, “the simple priest, the pastor” that he was looking for. To his greatest surprise, Pope John’s face changed constantly, “from one moment to the next, from one thought to another,” so that Manzu began to worry how such a man was elected pope.

In spite of long hourly sessions, it was impossible for the sculptor “to catch the real Pope,” or “whatever was behind him.”

DRESS POLICY ~ If this is the first time you have attended the Traditional Latin Mass you may have noticed that our parishioners do not dress casually in the church. Since the changes of Vatican II in the Church, few parishes have had any kind of dress code: we still believe that modesty and appropriate attire are necessary, especially in Church out of reverence for the Most Blessed Sacrament. Please observe these minimum standards of dress for attendance at Church and when attending any functions at the Chapel:

Everyone should refrain from jeans, shorts or T-shirts. Ladies, use a head covering, available in the back of the church for loan or purchase.

Remember, also, Lord, Your servants and handmaids below who are gone hence before us, marked with the sign of faith, and sleep the sleep of peace. To them, Lord and to all that rest in Christ, grant, we implore You a place of happiness, light and peace through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.
